

This Plan of the Island of Montserrat not being laid down from the measurement is not to be relied on, but the constructors local knowledge was such that perhaps the relative position of the several estates and High Ways &c. &c. are respectively laid down with a much accuracy as can be expected from an attempt of this nature, which at best cannot be considered more than a vague Approximation to real accuracy

Explanation

The small Shires intended to represent the site of the several estates such as Blythe's and the Lawryes &c. which
